SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE ST. LOUIS RE-Paris, Jan. 28. (Copyright, 196.)-The Paris, Jan. 28.—(Copyright, 1982)—The weather in Paris this week was most variable. Sharp, cold, alternated with dismal rain and fog. Skaters rose and fell, furs and wraps giving way to waterproofs and umbrellas. The sudden changes have had a had effect on the health of the city, cases of affections of the respiratory organs being numerous. There was an improvement toward the end of the week, when pleasant aunshine and invigorating cold induced many to walk in the Bois des Boulogne and the boulevards.

As a result of the wintry weather the cold induced many to walk in the Bols des Boulogne and the boulevards.

As a result of the wintry weather the Paris poor have soffered severely and great distress has been apparent. The Monte de Piete has had a week of con-science, which the municipal pawnshop resulted in an act of charity.
